MODERN OASIS

Nestled in the heart of Beverly Hills, an American Apparel Fashion Icon in his early 40s has taken his style from the runway to his own residence, the magnificent Laurel Way. This architectural masterpiece is a testament to the seamless fusion of modern aesthetics.

Welcome!

As the doors swing open, they unveil a world of exquisite beauty, inviting all to experience the harmony of artistry and architecture in perfect symphony.

Laurel Way's allure doesn't simply stem from its resident's high-profile identity. It is perched on a complex multilevel lot that gazes down upon the sprawling beauty of Beverly Hills. The very history of the suburb seems to echo within its walls, as if preserving the glamour and allure of an era gone by. Its distinct design was meticulously crafted to capture the panoramic splendour of the entire Los Angeles basin. From downtown's towering skyscrapers to the golden shores of the beach, Laurel Way offers a captivating perspective that is second to none. The vision for this architectural marvel was nothing short of ambitious. The design brief called for a harmonious blend of contemporary chic and inviting warmth. The interplay of materials, colours, and styles was an intricate dance, masterfully choreographed to create an environment that's both cohesive and comforting. The home's ambiance is defined by the natural tones of limestone, oak, and travertine, all artfully contrasted by metal trim, resulting in a harmonious symphony of textures and hues.

While every corner emanates modernity, it's the main living and dining space that truly steals the show. Opening up on both sides to seamlessly integrate indoor and outdoor living, this room is a symphony of design and nature. Here, you are invited to step into the captivating backyard, replete with a shimmering pool and the boundless expanse of Los Angeles sprawled out below. As one explores the interior, it's impossible not to be drawn to the sinuous walnut and limestone-clad staircase, a stunning masterpiece in its own right. This architectural marvel tantalizes the senses, offering a visual journey that culminates in the backlit wine cellar as you descend to the lower level. The selection of materials was a labour of love, with marbles and travertines handpicked from the picturesque landscapes of Italy. The exterior and interior embrace a titanium brown unfilled travertine, which lends a raw and distinctive beauty to the residence.

The fruition of the creative endeavour that is Laurel Way is nothing short of awe-inspiring. The seamless blend of modern aesthetics with a warm embrace creates an ambiance that is as inviting as it is stylish. This Beverly Hills haven is a testament to the power of design, where each detail has been thoughtfully curated to create an environment that transcends mere living space. When the owners beheld their new abode, they were thrilled beyond measure, they found themselves in awe of the attention to detail, the artistic vision, and the meticulous execution that had brought Laurel Way to life. Their expectations were not only met but surpassed, and they found themselves ensconced in a sanctuary that speaks to their unique style and sensibilities.

Ascending Beauty

Crafted with precision from walnut and limestone, the staircase is not just a means of transition, but a sculptural masterpiece. Every step embodies meticulous design, while the interplay of light and texture adds a touch of allure.
